FAQ

What is Hack the North?

Hack the North is Canada's biggest hackathon, where 3,200+ students of different backgrounds and skill levels come together from around the world to experiment and create unique software and hardware projects from scratch. Our goal is to empower individuals and teams to build something incredible in only 36 hours with provided resources, such as workshops, mentors, sponsors, and hardware components.

What is a volunteer?

Volunteers are crucial to ensuring our event runs smoothly—especially for our judging experience, which involves every single one of our hackers, and is one of the most important parts of the hacking weekend. As a volunteer, you will be helping out during the full shift window on the last day of our event.

If you are not a hacker but would still like to be involved with Hack the North, we highly encourage you to join us as a volunteer to gain a memorable experience with a team of individuals equally passionate about helping out! (PS, you do not need to have any technical experience to be a volunteer 💙)
